Summary: Volt, a.k.a Justice Chief, crash-lands on Remnant thanks to a meteor. Will he be able to adapt to life in this new world? (Come on, you know the answer)

RWBY: Volt Arc

Journal entry #, whatever, I lost count since oh I don't know, I was in stasis on my ship.* Breaths in and out, calmly*. Okay let me just start from the beginning, I'm a Tenno, Volt, fast, shocking, and I was a glass cannon at first until I put mods in my Warframe so now my defense is average like Excalibur. The other Tenno thought I was too young to go on missions with them, I'm only fourteen. But Lotus said my skills were exceptional for a youngster and since then I have traveled to planet to planet stopping Grineer, Corpus, Infested, Sentient, etc. It's been a blast you know, I even got a nickname from Lotus, Justice Chief. She said it means warrior of righteousness. I have this A.I called Ordis on my ship, he can be a little annoying at times but he's a good friend. My ship is red and blue, I don't know why but I got used to it. Eventually, I made my skin red and blue. I thought my life was never going to change. HAHAAAA. But I should have known from my many missions, that I should never sayâ€¦|

On My Ship, currently in space. I'm just kicking it, laying against the wall.

"What could possibly go wrong on this fine day in space?." I ask myself without a care in the world.

"Master Chief, I don't think it was wise to say those words." Ordis spoke with a bit of worry in his robot-like voice.

"Don't call me that." I play with my powers a bit, only making small red sparks of electricity with fingers. "Justice is fine, and why not?" I questioned. My curiosity was as curious as a cat wondering whether if the fish is poison or not. Geez that sounded like a cheesy line from an old detective sitcom or something.

"Records of your past missions indicate that every time you speak those words, something disastrous occurs shortly after." He reports sounding a little glitchy. It was normal.

"Since when are you superstitious?" This was a rare thing. Ordis may have his outbursts, but like any A.I he is not a believer of mystical things. Like bad luck.

"I wasn't at first but then when kept on occurring I became more careful." Ordis answers in his utmost cautious tone.

"Don't worry, what's the worst that can happen?" I ask him with the highest of confidence.

"Oh no." he said simply.

Then, this stray meteor speeds towards my ship at lightspeed and I see it glow so bright. It was at this very moment that I knew, I screwed up. Alarms were blaring, ringing, and other noises I can't think of at the moment.

"Justice, I believe this is the time I say, *I told you so you teenage ignoramus!" His voice had no sound of regret when he berated me.

"Not now, how did you not see that meteor coming?!" I was clearly angry at him, but should've remembered that Ordis was an ancient A.I, he couldn't help it. But he didn't have to be so snotty about being right! "How come you couldn't detect it?!"

"It was approaching at an unmeasurable speed, I couldn't detect it in time." He claims honestly.

Ordis was trying to fix the mainframe, but to avail. At that moment, I realised that my Kubrow could be injured somewhere on the ship.

"Oh no, Chiefto!" I yell as I get up and ran to the other room.

That's right, I named my Kubrow Chiefto, I had an ego problem. Anyway, Chiefto was barking like crazy with all the shaking going on in the ship.

"Ordis, open up Chiefto's stasis pod, now!" I order him in a seriously strict voice. Chiefto's stasis pod opens up. "Don't worry pal, it'll all be okay." I hope.

Chiefto enters his pod whimpering. I saw his sad face as the pod closes. This is some major bull. I need backup.

"Ordis, call Lotus!"

Ordis: Can't do that, the impact knocked out communication lines. Power is at 90.99% and dropping fast. What do we do?

I think for a while on what to do in this situation. Chiefto is in stasis. The ship will power down soon. There's only one thing to do at a time like this.

" Activate my stasis pod." I said plainly.

" Are you sure? You could be trapped forever, this is a stupid risk." Ordis yells in another outburst.

"One that I'll just have to take." This is one of the stupidest things I might have done in my lifetime. But hey, YOLO!

"Very well." He complied.

My stasis pod opens up besides Chiefto's and I quickly stepped in and watch it close on me, slowly going to sleep. The ship's power goes out, slowly drifting in space for years, and then out of nowhere this Grineer ship spots my ship. Inside the ship, there is a rookie Grineer soldier piloting the ship along with it's captain.

"Sir, there's a Tenno ship, red and blue. I think it's Justice Chief's." The soldier reports to his commander. Must've been recently cloned.

"Leave it, the way it looks, it's dead, along with it's owner." The high commander states with pride.

"Yes sir." He was glad it wasn't nothing too big. It was his first day of the job after all.

He moves the ship forward and accidentally bumps it just a bit into mine, pushing it into a red and black space rift that came out of nowhere.

"We can say that we did that to make sure he was dead." He hoped the captain would like the idea. And not take credit.

"I like your thinking." The Grineer captain noted.

The Grineer ship speeds off. Inside the rift, it looks like a portal(no not to the Digital World), red and black on the inside. And finally it spits the ship out into space. The ship hurtles into this planet's atmosphere. The planet looks pretty normal except for one thing. It's moon was partly shattered. The ship crashes in this forest with green trees. Inside the ship, my stasis pod opens up and I collapsed to the floor still sleeping. After a few minutes(80 minutes), I woke up from my little nap and is shocked (no pun intended)from the front window.

"There's no way a forest can be this perfect. Something's up." I address to myself.

I go over to Chiefto's stasis pod to open it but it didn't budge.

"Where's Rhino when you need him?" I just had to be the speedy one. "Ordis! Ordis! Ordis!" I call out for him but to no avail. I remember when he said that the power was dropping fast. That means he's unavailable(duh). "Oh right, that. Whelp, time to go out."

Gathering my weapons, Gorgon(Red with white stains), Stug Gun, and Venka(Red claws and blue base), I venture out into the strange woods hoping to find a civilization, hopefully not one of my adversaries. After a while I have no clue where to go, since my H.U.D is broken for some reason.

"It's official, I'm lost."

Some mystical force that has to be a newbie fan fiction writer must've heard me, because like some miracle, I find this huge building that looks amazing.

"What is that?" I questioned.

I walk towards it and see these, people, some with animal characteristics and weapons.

"Time to join in the crowd. And hopefully fit in." I hope to myself.

Walking towards the building even further, I get these weird looks from the people as I walk by.

"Look at those weapons. What are they? Junk?"

"Probably a robot. Look at him."

"I bet there's a handsome guy in that armor."

For some reason, I liked the attention. As I kept on walking, I hear this argument.

"What are you doing?" The voice was feminine and sounded a bit spoiled.

"Ugh, Sorry." Another feminine voice was heard but it sounded younger and innocent.

"Sorry? Do you have any idea of the damage you could've cause?" She must be really upset at the person judging by the tone of her voice.

I go to the source and see the girl in the red and black dress attire and red cloak hands a white suitcase to the white dress girl with the scar at the bottom of her eye. The white dress girl opens the suitcase.

"Gimme me that. This is dust. Mined and purified from the Schnee Quarry." The white dress girl explains.

"Uhh?" The red hooded girl didn't seem to get it.

My thoughts exactly. I agreed with the hooded girl's response. Knowing nothing about this so-called Schnee thingy.

"What are you, brain dead? Dust. Fire, Water, Lightning, Energy." She unintentionally shakes a dust container.

Lightning, huh. Hey, the lightning one obviously would have increased my curiosity.

"Are you even listening to me? Is any of this sinking in?" She's still shaking the container.

"Okay that's enough!" I burst out towards the white dressed girl. She's shocked by my appearance(no pun intended), but then shakes it off.

"Who, and what, are you?" She asked rather rudely shaking the container still.*

"Just your friendly neighborhood Tenno. Now back off the stereotypical kawaii girl." Gotta admit. I sounded like a noble hero.

The red hood girl looks like she's about to sneeze. And she does, causing an explosion that creates a large crater.

"Whoa!" I was knocked down on my back and get right back up.

The explosion was weird, like a mix of fire, ice, and electricity. The last one I didn't mind of course. And the bottle rolls towards a black dressed girl.

"Unbelievable. This is exactly the kind of thing I was talking about!" She yells infuriated by the event that just took place.

"Hey, take responsibility for your actions. Man, you're even more of a jerk than Frost." I state to her. I hope I made a point.

"Who's that, a freak like you?" She asked still being very rude.

"No, he's a jerk but a lot nicer than you. Don't blame this girl for your mistake. You shook the bottle causing the explosion. Am I not mistaken princess?" I don't want to be mean to her but she's being a real B-word. (Dang this K+ rating)

"It's Heiress, actually." Said a mysterious voice that enters the fray.

We turn to see a black clad girl with a black bow on her head walk towards us.

"Weiss Schnee, heiress to the Schnee Dust Company, one of the largest energy propellant in the world." She seemed so respectful when she introduced the jerk.

"Finally, some recognition!" Wow, she's like a child wanting attention.

"The same company infamous for its controversial labor forces and questionable business partners." She says so subtle but still had a hint of hatred for said company.

"What-How dare-! The nerve of-!" Weiss had this coming to her. We all know that from the episode. Wait, I'm breaking the fourth wall! Gasps Am I Deadpool? Nah! I'm just kidding, let's continue the story.

Me and the red hood girl chuckle at this. Weiss snatches the red vile out of the black dress girl's hand and struts away.

"I promise I'll make this up to you!" Weiss probably heard her, but just didn't give a crud. I guess I'm not the only one having a rough first day." She gets "True." I had to agree with her.

The red hooded girl then smiles and turns to the direction of the black bow girl who seems quite mysterious if you ask me. But hey, I'm not gonna judge.

"So what's-?" She sees the black bow girl walk off and then collapses to the ground on her back. "Welcome to Beacon!"

"So is that what this planet is called?" I ask her while laying down like her. It was quite relaxing despite the hard ground.

She turns her head and sees me lying next to her. Not the least bit concerned about my appearance and the way my voice sounds like a walkie talkie. "No, it's the academy's name, and why are you laying down like me?" She asks me.

"I thought this was a custom here." I told her. I realize that was not the case with the way she looked at me.

"I'm guessing you're not from here." She states.

"Correct." I assured. Then, I just wanted to tease her a bit. Let's see how it goes. "Seeing anyone?" I ask her so flirtatiously.

"Huh?!" She blushes as red as her cloak, covering her face with said cloak.

Justice - 1; Red Hooded girl - 0

I decided not to increase my score and just relax on the cold hard ground. "Just kidding. Want to keep laying here to relieve stress?"

She stops panicking and calms down. "Sure."

It was only a short rest when this blond haired individual came in front of the red hood girl. She sees this and faces him.

"Hey...I'm Jaune." He reached a hand out for her.

"Ruby." She takes his hand to get up. "Aren't you the guy that threw up on the ship?"

The boy frowns at her question. He then looks at me and jumps.

"Ahhhhhh, what is that, an evil robot?" He asks in fear.

I flip up and bow in a very noble manner.

"No, I'm a Tenno." I clear up.

"A what?" They both ask in unison.

"You don't know what a Tenno is?" That seemed weird to me for some reason I can't remember.

"Not ever." The petite reaper confirms. "Who are you?"

"My real name is Volt but I'm called Justice Chief."

"Uh huh?" Jaune seems a bit confused.

We take a walk together, I tell them stories about the Tenno, things about the suit of armor the Tenno use called Warframe(don't worry, I didn't tell them about weak points, or how to build one, and good thing too, because Ruby was a little bit too excited about it), and some of my missions. But somehow we got to the topic of airsickness thanks to the blond dude somehow.

"All I'm saying is that motion sickness is a much more common problem than people let on!" he was really keen on proving a point. That nobody cares about.

"Look, I'm sorry Vomit-Boy was the first thing that came to mind." Ruby told me that he vomited on the transport they were on and that started his bad rep.

"Oh yeah, what if I called you Crater-face?" He ask her.

"Oh snap!" I snap my fingers(duh). "Are you gonna take that?"

"Hey, that explosion was an accident." She states.

"Well the name's Jaune Arc! Short, sweet, rolls off the tongue, ladies love it." The now named Jaune Arc tells us.

"Do they really?" I ask with a huge hint of skepticism.

"They will. Well I hope they willâ€¦ I mean my mom always says thatâ€¦ nevermind." He stops at that sentence.

"Dude, I speak from experience, moms don't count." I tell him. "And you know, you remind me of my brother Inaros, he likes to fight on the ground, hates being up high, which is weird considering the missions and space travel."

"So Frost is also your brother?" Ruby asks.

"Yeah, like I said before, he's a jerk, but he means well." No lie. Frost may seem cold but when someone messes with his family, let's just say that the Grineer ice sculptures in his room aren't ice sculptures.

Awkward silence occurs.

"So I got this thing." She takes out this object and it deploys as a big red and black scythe. Jaune looks surprised but I just stand there like it was natural.

"Whoa! Is that a scythe?!" Jaune asks.

"No it's a big candy cane." I tell him.

Ruby giggles at my sarcasm. "It's also a customizable, high impact velocity sniper rifle."

"A wha-?" Jaune is completely clueless about weapons.

"It's also a gun." I turn my head towards him. "Honestly she said it's a sniper rifle, how did you not get that?"

"Hey now, I'm not that familiar with other weapons than my own." He claims.

"So, what is it?"

"Oh uh, it's this sword." He unsheathes his sword.

"Oooooooh!" Ruby is amazed by Crocea Mors.

Me: Interesting.

Jaune: Yeah, I've got a shield too. Jaune takes the shield out.

"So, what do they do?" Ruby taps the shield a tiny bit and causes Jaune to fumble it around until it drops.*

"Wellâ€¦ the shield gets smallerâ€¦ so when I get tired of carrying it... I can just put it away." He didn't seem to confident when explaining it.

"Wouldn't it weigh the same?" I ask him.

"Yeah, it does."

"Well, I'm kind of a dork when it comes to weapons." Ruby shyly drags her feet along the ground.

"You would get along great with Excalibur and Mesa."

"More siblings?" She ask.

"Yeah, it's a big family tree." I tell them.

"What about Excalibur and Mesa?" Jaune ask.

"Excalibur's an expert on melee, and Mesaâ€¦.she's sort of a gun-nut."

"Soâ€¦. canyoushowusyourweapons?" She talks really fast but I was able to understand her, for obvious reasons.

I just shrugged my shoulders. "Alright, these are the ones I bought with me." I deploy Venka and Jaune got startled.

"Wow, claw gauntlets." Ruby's eyes sparkled with wonder equal to that of a child.

"These are Venka, great for cutting down the enemy." I retract the claws and take out Gorgon. "This is Gorgon, my rifle, it's a Grineer weapon that I crafted, just like my other weapons."

"You are an alien." Jaune says in amazement.

Then, I take out the Stug Gel Gun, Jaune seems a bit grossed out by it. I don't get it, I mean it's just a weapon that shoots sticky gel compounds and explodes all over the place. Perfectly normal.

"Uh, what is that thing?" He asks while trying not to barf.

"My pistol, the Stug Gel Gun, it's very sticky."

"Eeeeeeeeeee, I'm totally fangirling over your weapons. I never thought I would actually see alien weapons." See guys? She's a combination of Excalibur and Mesa put together. Minus the maturity. "I'll admit, I went a little overboard in designing mine." Ruby admits.

"Wait, you made that?" He asked.

"Of course. All students at Signal forge their own weapons. Didn't you two make yours?" She asks us.

"I use a foundry to make my weapons, it takes so long to find the materials sometimes, but it's worth it."

"It's a hand me down." Jaune doesn't look like he's proud. "My great-great-grandfather used it to fight in the war."

"Sounds more like a family heirloom to me." Ruby adds. "Well I like it, not many people have an appreciation for the classics these days."

"Yeah, the classics."

"Even Tenno use plain swords sometimes."

"So Jaune, why'd you decide to help me out back there, in the courtyard?" Ruby ask. Man, they are asking a lot of questions.

He looks confident in what he's about to say. "Eh, why not, my mom always says, "Strangers are just friends you haven't met yet"."

"In some cases." I advise him.

Ruby seems to be confused about something. "Hmmmâ€|. Hey, where are we going?"

Yoda voice Still asking questions, we are.

"Oh, I dunno, I was following you." Jaune tells us.

I stop in my tracks. "I thought you two knew where to go."

"You think there might be a directory? Maybe a food court? Some sort of recognizable landmark?" He ask.

Me and Ruby snicker.

"Is uhâ€| Is that a "no"?"

"Yeah." I said.

"That's a 'no'?" Ruby finishes off.
